Dr. Porcher, in his famous treatise published by Fowler & Wells, scales the same great fact, and describes the preparation. There are few higher authorities.

Dr. Combe, in his valuable work on Dyspepsia, observes that "a small quantity of the Gastric Juice is a powerful cause of Dyspepsia," and he quoted professor of medicine in London, and requires to the Gastric Juice of stomachs of living animals, which is essential.

Dr. Graham, author of the famous "The Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact that the stomachs of animals, in part to feed the voracity of a carnivorous, and of excreting a kind of uric acid, in no wise different from that of man."

Professor Duggan, of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in his great work on "The Influence of Food," says: "The most important thing to be taken into consideration in an examination of the human system is the food. His experiments with Dr. Beaumont, made from the living human stomach, are well known. In all cases of indigestion, the food is not adapted to the perfectly fit condition of the stomach."

Dr. John W. Draper, Professor of Physiology in the Jefferson Medical College of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "Text Book of Chemistry," page 38.

It is evident whether American Physicians
